

In God's Big Story

FAMILY CONVERSATIONS

Families, use this to prompt conversations at the table, in the car, and anywhere else your family experiences life together.

- When is a time someone in our family helped you when you needed help?
- When is a time God helped you? How did you know it was God helping you?
- God is faithful and always does what He says He'll do. Who is someone else you think of as being faithful?

WALK IT ACT IT MOVE IT

Tipsy-Topple

For this activity, you'll want a few pillows or sofa cushions on hand. Why? Because while God is faithful, gravity comes in a close second! Place something soft in front of you before giving this a try.

Do this: Stand up, plant your feet, and see how far forward you can lean without either moving your feet or falling over. Even if you're limber, it won't be far.

Now pair up with someone in your family and face one another. If you're lots taller than your partner, get on your knees so you're about the same height. Now place your palms on the palms of your partner and start slowly scooching your feet back while leaning on your partner. You'll be able to lean forward lots more before losing your balance!

Serve a snack while you and your family talk about this: How is what we just experienced something like the times we try to do hard things on our own compared to the times we ask God for help?

WALK IT ACT IT MOVE IT

Happy to Help!

If your family is typical, there's a long list of things to do to keep your home tidy: sweeping the kitchen floor, washing dishes, keeping the cat's litter box under control, picking up clothes and toys. Probably everyone in the family has an item or two on their personal list.

And nobody is exactly enthusiastic about tackling those tasks.

Let's change that!

Ask family members which tasks they truly don't like and why and pair up to do those tasks together. Two rules: To turn those tasks into acts of service, both partners must help. And while you're teamed up doing acts of service, talk to each other. Here are some possible topics of conversation:

- What's made you laugh lately?
- What's an area in life where you could use some help?
- How can we pray for one another and ask God for help too?
